Clarke and Rublee Named as Other Members of Board

TO WORK AT ONCE
Entire Railway Labor Situation Will Be Probed

OMAHA, Oct. 5.—A formal announcement was made here tonight that President Wilson had selected Major General Goethals, Commissioner Clarke of the Interstate Commerce Commission, and George Rublee of the Trade Commission as members of the board created by Congress to investigate the railroad eight-hour law.

While the law does not go into effect until January 1, the President desired the members of the board to give a close study to the entire situation. General Goethals will act as chairman of the board.

General Goethals obtained the President's consent recently to resign as governor of the Panama Canal zone. He arrived in this country recently with the understanding that he would not return to the canal.

Tublee was rejected once by the Senate as a member of the federal trade commission but is serving a recess appointment given him by the President. He is from New Hampshire.

The President has given detailed consideration to selection of the members of the board, and administration officials said today that he believed he had collected a board which would investigate the eight-hour law with fairness to the public, the railroads and employees.

HINDU QUESTION IN SUPREME COURT

Case From San Joaquin County, California, to Be Decided

WASHINGTON, Oct. 5.—Immigration of Hindus to the United States is a question before the supreme court for its examination of a decree of California federal courts ordering deportation in 1913 of thirty-five Hindus from San Francisco. Important questions involving Anglo-American treaties, alleged race prejudice, authority of immigration officials and citizenship rights are raised in the appeal. Also involved is the question of whether immigrants allowed to enter the Philippines by war department and excluded from the United States. The Hindus are said to be working in San Joaquin county, California, where they secured bail pending an appeal.

Exclusion of the Hindus was ordered by the immigration bureau and sustained by the California district court and Ninth Circuit Court of Appeals. It was found they were suffering from hookworm and might become public charges. The courts held, also, that for immigration purposes the Philippines are not a part of the United States.

PROTEST AGAINST ENFORCED FIGHTING

Jews in New York Denounce Proposed Action in England

NEW YORK, Oct. 5.—A cablegram protesting against a reported attempt in the British House of Commons to force Russian and Rumanian refugees from England unless they join the British army was sent today to Sir Herbert Samuel, home secretary of England. The protest was the result of a mass meeting last night called by the National Workmen's Committee in Jewish rights, which is said to represent 500,000 workers.

Speakers attacked Samuel for advancing the proposal. Representative Meyer London said that if the act, which, it was stated, comes up Monday in the House of Commons, was passed, it would be more infamous than the invasion of Belgium by the Germans.

SACRAMENTO, Cal., Oct. 5.—In an opinion handed down today by Attorney-General U. S. Webb, Market Director Harris Weinstein was notified that any combination to fix the price of any product, even though that price be reasonable, was in violation of the anti-trust laws. In the same opinion, however, Webb declared that the anti-trust measures of the state were unenforceable, justifying this will have on Weinstein's plans for farmers' organization is not known.

SEEKING BIDS ON BATTLE CRUISERS

Will Complete Plans for Huge Navy Building Program

WASHINGTON, Oct. 5.—Bids for the four giant battle cruisers to be laid down next year will be opened at the Navy department December 8, virtually completing the work of getting the huge building program authorized by Congress under contract. Admiral Benson, acting secretary, announced today that specifications for the ships were ready for distribution to prospective bidders. Bids for the four battle ships, scout cruisers and other ships included in the program will be opened October 25, plans having been sent out six weeks ago.

The department began the task of assembling armament for the battle cruisers today when bids for the forgings for 21 14-inch and ten 5-inch guns were opened. Each of the big vessels will mount ten 14-inch guns in her main battery and with provision for ten reserve guns, 50 of these weapons will be constructed for within a few days.

The Bethlehem Steel Company bid the entire allotment of big guns at 32 1/2 cents per pound and the Midvale Steel and Ordnance Company a rate of 35 cents for 12 guns only. The contracts will be divided between the companies. The bids show virtually no increase over the navy's last purchases.

The Crucible Steel Company was low bidder on the five-inch forgings at 29 cents a pound.

On the ratings voted the big forgings will cost $60,000 for each gun. Forgings for the small guns will cost $20,000 each. The weapons will be completed and mounted at the naval gun factory here.

Specifications of the battle cruisers were not made public. It is known, however, that they call for 850 foot ships with a maximum speed of 35 knots an hour under three-quarters of the full load conditions. They will be propelled by six screws, operated by electric motors, power for which will be derived from steam turbines and will have a displacement of more than 20,000 tons. Their cost has been estimated roughly at $20,000,000 each.

The Navy department will not decide whether any of the new battle ships or battle cruisers shall be built at navy yards until bids from private builders have been considered.

SUES MCCORMICK FOR LIBEL ON HYPHENISM ISSUE

O'Leary Will Take His Quarrel With President Wilson Into Court

IS F O R $50,000
Value of Mr. O'Leary's Vote to Democratic Leader in Question

NEW YORK, Oct. 5.—Vance McCormick, chairman of the Democratic national committee, announced today that he had been served with a summons in a suit for $50,000, brought against him by Jeremiah A. O'Leary, president of the American Truth Society. McCormick said he had not been apprised, however, of the charges upon which the suit was based.

O'Leary declared that he instituted the action "to find out first whether hyphenism, so-called, is libelous; and second, whether it is inconsistent with Americanism."

O'Leary said he resented a statement attributed to McCormick criticizing him for sending an "insulting message" to President Wilson. In that message O'Leary criticized the President for "not enforcing American rights against Great Britain," and informed Wilson that he would not vote for the re-election of the President.

O'Leary said he would feel "deeply mortified to have you (Mr. O'Leary) or anybody like you to vote for me," adding, "since you have access to many, many disloyal Americans and I have not, I will ask you to convey this message to them."

In the statement attributed to McCormick, appearing October 4 and upon which O'Leary said he based his suit for libel, the chairman of the Democratic national committee was quoted as having commented upon the presence of Charles E. Hughes at the Union League reception Tuesday night, concluding with the statement that there "could be no doubt about Mr. Hughes' position because of his silence on the message sent to the President by Mr. O'Leary."

O'Leary gave out the following tonight: "My purpose in suing Mr. McCormick is to find out first whether hyphenism, so-called, is libelous; and second, whether it is inconsistent with Americanism. I also sue him as a challenge to him to let any American jury decide whether a protest to the President because he has not forced American rights against Great Britain is disloyalty. I represent the highest patriotism contained in his statement that any man running for public office could repudiate my vote or the vote of millions of my fellow citizens who think as I do."

A citizen's loyalty to his country is not a proper part of a political campaign; and, therefore, I feel that it is wrong to assert it politically, because it strikes at the fundamentals of our citizenship.

Votes Worth Too Much.
"What right would Charles E. Hughes have to repudiate a voter who would vote for him? I yield to McCormick his right to support Mr. Wilson and to vote for Mr. Wilson, and no matter how faithless I believe Mr. Wilson has been in protecting American property and commerce, I would never assert that he was disloyal because he supported Mr. Wilson and differed from Mr. Hughes."

John R. Jones, an attorney for O'Leary, declared that O'Leary "also intends to begin other libel suits against newspapers throughout the country who have questioned his rights and abused him for sending what he considered a perfectly proper telegram to the President of the United States."

War Centers Now in Eastern Europe

With Russians still vigorously attacking Austro-Germans in Volhynia, west of Lutske to the Dniester in Galicia, Emperor William has started for the front of General von Linsingen, near Lutske, where the principal fighting is taking place.

At various places in this sector and in Galicia, Petrograd asserts that the Austro-Germans have been defeated. Berlin, however, declares that the only point where Russians reached Teutonic lines was north of Zublino, and that they later were driven out.

Although there is a divergence in reports from Sofia and Bucharest concerning the fate of Rumanians who crossed the Danube into Bulgaria, the fact is patent that they have caused their "demonstration."

Bucharest says Rumanians withdrew to the left bank of the Danube, but Sofia asserts that the battlefront in northern Bulgaria between Rastchuk and Turtukal, where they crossed the river, is covered with Rumanian dead as a result of their forced speedy retirement to their own soil.

Deadlock in Dobrudja

All the attempts of Rumanians and Russians to advance in Dobrudja have been frustrated by counter attacks of the Teutonic allies.

In Transylvania, Rumanians have captured near Paradj, Austro-German fortifications after a battle that lasted three days. Near Bekokten, north of Fogaras and in the vicinity of the Hatzeg mountains Rumanians were reported by Berlin as in retreat, but it is admitted by the German war office that the invaders have made another gain in the Orsova sector.

A submarine of the Teutonic allies has sent to the bottom in the Mediterranean the Cunard liner Franconia, which was being used as a transport. No troops were on the steamer and only twelve men of the crew of 302 are missing.

Approach Monastir

Forces of the Entente powers have driven their line to within twelve miles of Monastir, Serbia, and have occupied the town of Buf. Occupation of Yenikul, near the Struma river, by the British is admitted by Berlin. Likewise, Berlin concedes loss of Nidja mountain, east of Monastir. The Italians have captured several additional towns in Albania.

Considerable fighting has taken place in Asiatic Turkey, where, along the coast region, Russian land forces—in co-operation with their fleet, have made advances on a wide front, inflicting heavy losses on the Turks and capturing arms, ammunition and supplies, says Petrograd. Constantinople reports the repulse of the British in an attempt to advance along the Euphrates front near Nasiriyah.

Little fighting except by the artillery of the belligerents is taking place in the Austro-Italian theater. A similar situation exists on the western front in France.

SUPPORTING BELL AGAINST RANDALL FOR CONGRESSMAN

(Special to the Republican.)
LOS ANGELES, Oct. 5.—The candidacy of Congressman Charles H. Randall for re-election in the ninth district has been repudiated at a meeting of the County Republican Central Committee upon the grounds that the incumbent is not a Republican.

He voted consistently with the Democrats on all party measures during his term and, notwithstanding the fact that he was nominated as a Republican, the organization decided to fight him.

Charles W. Bell, former congressman, and known as a Progressive Republican, was unanimously endorsed as the independent candidate.

Randall is a prohibitionist and was elected because of his stand on the liquor question. In Washington he lined up with Democrats on every issue that was opposed by Republicans according to the Congressional record. In the last primary election Randall was nominated as a Republican, Prohibitionist and Progressive.

ACCUSED BY SUPERIOR, LIEUTENANT RESIGNS

Man Who Rose From Private Quits His Commission

SAN DIEGO, Cal., Oct. 5.—Following an accusation against him by Colonel J. D. Baker, United States Infantry, unassigned of conduct unbecoming an officer, First Lieutenant Harold P. Talbot, of Company A, Twenty-first Infantry, United States Army, today sent his resignation to the War department.

Talbot's resignation was announced at the regimental headquarters at the Panama-California Exposition.

Lieutenant Talbot is accused of passing checks on a Yuma bank in which he had no funds, during a visit to San Diego. These checks afterward were validated by the officer, but not before Colonel Baker learned of the action.

At the order of Colonel Baker, Lieutenant Talbot was court-martialed about seven months ago for an alleged military offense and was sentenced to serve six months within the confines of the military camp.

Lieutenant Talbot entered the service as a private in the Philippine scouts and attained his present rank only a few months ago. His brother is owner and editor of the New York Globe.

Wilson and Wet Issue Again Up

Campaigners Not Satisfied With Tumulty's Reply

BERESFORD, S. D., Oct. 5.—A response from Secretary Tumulty in regard to President Wilson's attitude on prohibition, received today by the prohibition national campaigning forces, failed to satisfy them, and charges that the secretary had evaded the issue were freely made.

What the prohibitionists, through Oliver W. Stewart, their campaign manager, particularly asked the President to do was to issue a proclamation, by telegraph, almost two weeks ago, was whether the California wet forces, failed to satisfy them, and charges that the secretary had evaded the issue were freely made.

A reply by telegraph at Bakersfield, Cal., on the following day was requested, in order that the answer might be used in the California fight.

Tumulty's response went to San Francisco by mail and did not reach the party until today at Parker, S. D. No direct reference was made to the California situation in Secretary Tumulty's reply. He merely acknowledged receipt of the telegram, enclosed two form letters to the President's position, and said that there was a third—the Grogan letter, which was inaccessible.

The letter enclosed was written at different times to Hon. Thomas H. Shannon of Newark, N. J., and W. R. Haldeman of Louisville. In the Shannon letter, written in May, 1911, the President declared for local option and declared that the liquor question was not susceptible of being made a part of a party program. The Haldeman letter of four years later said that the President would not attempt to approve or disapprove state-wide prohibition in a state where he did not know local conditions. It also made reference to the Grogan letter, which it appears, Haldeman did not think squared with the Shannon letter.

The prohibition campaigners declared, after receiving Tumulty's letter, that if the President does not take a stronger stand than for local option, they can only classify him as a friend of the "wet" interests.

Big Ordnance Grounds

TRENTON, N. J., Oct. 5.—The Bethlehem Steel corporation announces that its new proving ground for ordnance to be established near Mays Landing, N. J., will be the greatest of its kind in the world. The site includes about 2,000 acres and runs for eighteen miles along the Great Egg harbor river.

Both in size and equipment the new proving plant will surpass the famous Krupp grounds in Germany. The plant will be used in the testing of ordnance built for the United States government and for foreign governments.

PROTEST RIFLING OF AMERICAN MAILS IN ORIENT

U. S. Citizens at Shanghai Complain of British Seizures

ACTION URGED
Can European Blockade Be Extended Into Asiatic Waters

SHANGHAI, China, Oct. 5.—The American Chamber of Commerce of China has sent to the state department at Washington a petition for immediate action to prevent further interference with American mails by the British. The petition states that up to the end of August the British authorities have opened and censored 144 sacks of official, registered, business and private mail and that "certain parcel post packages, according to a report of the United States postmaster, bore every evidence of having been rifled in transit from United States postoffices to the United States postal agency in Shanghai."

It is of vital importance for the extension of American commerce, the petition says, that the inviolability of American mails be established. The state department is urged to take immediate and effective steps to prevent further interference with and to secure the future inviolability of the United States mails on the Pacific from all nations and that demand be made on the British government for the cessation of the punishment of the censor and of other officials guilty of opening, censoring and rifling United States mail.

Pacific Case Stronger

WASHINGTON, Oct. 5.—A petition of the American Chamber of Commerce of China for relief from British interference with mails for the Far East has not yet reached the State Department, but several American indignants and firms in this country and in China have called attention to specific cases of detention. While the complaints will be dealt with as part of the general case now being pressed against the Allies, it is felt by some that the case against British interference with mails on the Pacific would occupy far stronger ground in international law than the pending representations regarding detentions in European waters. Even though inspection of European mails were conducted by legitimate exercise of blockade rights these officials assert there is no excuse for interference with mails of a neutral country in waters as remote as the China sea from the blockade lines and the field of hostilities.

Support Billings

EUREKA, Cal., Oct. 5.—The California State Federation of Labor here adopted resolutions tonight pledging the support of the federal for the defense of Warren K. Billings, recently convicted of murder in connection with the bomb explosion in San Francisco on July 22, and of the other defendants indicted in connection with the same affair.

There were nine dissenting votes and the roll call was preceded by a warm debate in which the custom of organizing defense funds whenever "labor is oppressed" was denounced by many speakers, including Paul Scharrerberg and D. C. Murphy of San Francisco, who declared that all such matters should be handled through the federation council.

The resolution favoring military training was withdrawn without comment. The election of officers was confirmed.

It was expected that the convention would reach an adjournment today, but, owing to the lengthy debate on the Billings resolution, there will be another session tomorrow at which the question of unionizing Japanese will be discussed.

Paper Prices

EUREKA, Oct. 5.—A resolution calling on the Federal Trade commission to investigate paper prices was adopted today by the convention. Other resolutions will be discussed.

300 WOMEN WRECK STREET CAR, URGED BY MOTHER JONES

New York Police Have Hard Time Suppressing Riot; New Efforts at Settlement

NEW YORK, Oct. 5.—Spurred on by the exhortations of "Mother" Jones, labor agitator, 300 wives and women relatives of striking street car men battled with the police late this afternoon in the most serious riot since the walkout on the traction lines a month ago. Night sticks were swung right and left by the police and many of the women were bruised. Scores of rioters carried babies in their arms.

A crowd of strikers entered the fray on the side of the women and was driving back the few patrolmen on the scene when an automobile load of police reinforcements arrived. The rioters plunged into the midst of the struggling mob and wielded their clubs without mercy. When the rioters finally fled they left nine prisoners—six women and three men—in the hands of the police.

The trouble began when the women poured out of the hall where "Mother" Jones and exhorted them to "get the scabs" out of the city hall where a "You are too sentimental," she cried, "staying at home thinking of dresses and trinkets when you ought to be out raising hell."

Trooping into the street, the women hoisted and jeered at cross town cars in Eighty-sixth street. Suddenly the scabs of the cars were hurled through the window of a car halted by a large automobile truck. This seemed the signal for a general attack on the car and in less than a minute every window was shattered. A patrolman who was on strike duty on the car secured the 40 or 50 passengers into the street and then charged alone into the crowd of jeering women. He was helpless, however, until assistance arrived.

Meanwhile the car was being wrecked as pieces after pieces of broken asphalt tumbled from a pile on the sidewalk was hurled at it. The motorman and conductor were lost to sight after several women clambered aboard the car and pulled them into the street. The men's clothing was torn, their faces scratched and bruised. It was not until the automobile loaded with reserves arrived that the semblance of order was restored.

One of the women arrested charged the police with "dragging" her infant child from her arms. She asserted the child was left on the sidewalk and two hours after the riot no trace of it had been found.

Before the meeting of the women closed, a committee was appointed to arrange for a woman's parade from Union Square to the city hall where an attempt will be made to see Mayor Mitchell. The parade probably will be held Monday. Samuel Gompers, president of the American Federation of Labor, conferred today with Wm. B. Fitzgerald, general organizer of the Amalgamated Association of Street and Electric Railway Employees, and James Vanney of counsel for the association. It was reported that plans for the early settlement of the strike were discussed.

MAY ORGANIZE LABOR IN JAPAN

Union Delegation From California to Go to the Orient

EUREKA, Cal., Oct. 5.—The Japanese labor question came up again today in the California State Federation of Labor convention here with the result that federation officers virtually assured B. Suzuki, president of the Japanese workers' union, seated as a fraternal delegate, underwent a half hour of sharp questioning during which he declared that the Japanese government would not interfere with such a project.

Yesterday after a protracted debate on the question of organizing the Japanese in California, the federation adopted a resolution maintaining its boycott on Japanese labor and employment. It was then that the suggestion of organizing the Japanese workers in his native country was offered and the convention floor was preliminary step in solving the Asiatic labor problem.

Harris, Vice President

EUREKA, Cal., Oct. 5.—The first woman to hold office in the California state federation of labor, Mrs. Margaret Malone, was elected vice president of the federation at its convention here, with jurisdiction over Marin, Solano and Yuba counties. Her opponent withdrew.

The following vice presidents were elected today by the California State Federation of Labor: E. J. Branch, San Diego, to represent the Riverside district; Harry Pothoff, San Pedro, to represent Los Angeles county; W. W. Harris, district No. 3, Bakersfield to Fresno; Thomas Vitach, San Joaquin county; H. J. Young, Santa Clara county; Mrs. Margaret Malone, Marin county; Mrs. Nara, county; E. H. Hart, Alameda county; F. W. Heckman, Contra Costa county; Alfred J. Ryder, Joseph J. Matheson and Charles L. Childs, San Francisco; William J. McQuillan, Sacramento county; N. W. Palmer, Placer county; James (Glenn) Glendon, Colusa county; and Theodore counties.

The letter enclosed was written at different times to Hon. Thomas H. Shannon of Newark, N. J., and W. R. Haldeman of Louisville. shouted frantically every time Mr. Wilson appeared. It was an impressive demonstration which greatly pleased the president and his political advisers. "Omaha was in gala attire for the day. The celebration, non-partisan in character, and arranged by a committee made up largely of Republicans, was given a political touch by the presence of the president. All the buildings were draped with American flags, windows were packed with people during the parade, and bands constantly played popular and martial music. One of the busiest days of his career was spent by Mr. Wilson. Starting with brief speeches to crowds in Iowa towns this morning, he came here to deliver three speeches, attend a luncheon and dinner, lead a parade for an hour and then review it, visit the national swine show and hold several political conferences. He left tonight for Long Branch, N. J., where he will arrive Saturday morning.

On World Trade

The President spoke in part as follows: "One of the pleasures of coming into this western country is that so many things get started here, so many things by way of energy and initiative originate here. There was an advantage in those old days when there were no railroads. You were not then the external oversight of the east. Small groups of gentlemen who considered themselves able to comprehend more than the Almighty has permitted any man to comprehend were not then endeavoring to run your affairs along with their own. And the railroads perhaps have not done you as great a spiritual service as they have material service. They have kept you in communications which you did not stand in need of for you know how to take care of yourselves. I have thought often how very useful it was sometimes to make new beginnings, to break old connections and long-standing traditions in order to meet the new conditions and new circumstances and new times. I have been a student of history all my life but I have noticed that the movements of history occur when the shackles of the past are shaken off, that if you wish to be delayed in your development you will always be going with your head over your shoulder, reminding yourselves of how the thing was done and hampering yourselves with methods which caught long ago to have been shaken off."

Must Act in New Age. "There are many circumstances that make one feel that the present stage of the world is beyond measure tragical. And yet, my fellow countrymen, I believe that this great catastrophe which has fallen upon the world in the shape of war is going to do us in America at any rate, a great service. It is going to oblige every man to know that he lives in a new age and that he has got to act not according to the traditions of the past but according to the necessities of the present."

Genius Confined. "With what we boasted and believed—a belief that we are the best genius of business in the world we had not even thought of using that genius outside of our own markets. We cannot do that any longer. We have got for a certain period at least to place ourselves in the shoes of the rest of the world for ourselves and for others. The resources of the world by recent process have, as it were, been poured in upon us. "The extraordinary circumstance is that for the next decade at any rate—after that it will be matter of our choice whether it continues or not—but for the next decade at any rate we have got to serve the world. That alters every commercial question, it alters every political question, it alters every question of domestic development. The men who insist upon going on to do the old things in the old way are going to be at the tail of the procession. The swing of our destiny has at last become a swing that will shake the horizon. And the thing that we have to be careful about is that we do this thing in a new way. It has hitherto been done by those who wanted to exploit the world. It has got to be done now in a way that will deserve the confidence of the world. American character, as well as American enterprise, is going to be put to the test. American ideals are for the first time to be exhibited upon a world-wide scale. American publishers are going to be tested by the purposes of mankind and not by the purposes of national ambition. I say that it is a pity not to be young in these days."

Chance of Youth. "It is bliss in this day for any American to be alive and to be young must be very heaven, because all the destiny into whose great fruitions American has promised to lead the world is now then to be achieved under her leadership if she will see and take the way. All this, gentlemen, is in the abstract, but in the concrete it means a very interesting variety of things and I want you to know that I ought not to be in the mood in my conception make an difference in my doing these things, provided you see to it that they are done. But America will never forgive herself if she doesn't do them. And I want you to believe me when I say that certain things have recently been accomplished by legislation, have been accomplished with these ideals and purposes in mind. "Sometimes we deceive ourselves by thinking that the progress of our years has chiefly consisted in experience stimulated by the war. It will be worth your while to look into the flames. Our exports have been about in this proportion: An increase in exports during these years of some two thousand millions expressed in dollars; and an increase in the national wealth of forty-one thousand millions—twenty times the increase of our exports. Can an increase in our exports of two thousand million produce so stupendous an effect as to multiply itself twenty times in our national wealth? The fact is that the world has poured its wealth upon us by reason of the fact that we are at last waking up to the fact that the world has not the wealth that we possess and that therefore, the real business of legislation is to release these forces and to see to it that impediments new or old shall not be placed in the way. That is the reason it has been the strenuous endeavor of recent years to see to it that business men got rid of the belief which some of them had that the law was intended to restrain and not to give them. "Good or Bad Business. "Take the anti-trust laws for example. Until very recently I venture to say most American business men spoke of the anti-trust laws with a curse on their breath—just as men think of shackles just as men think of being deprived of opportunity. And we have a great deal of talk about big business getting no sympathy. That was not the trouble. Big business had plenty of sympathizers, but bad business ought not to have had any sympathy, and what our laws did was to make the definition of what was good and what was bad. What they stood in need of was a distinct impression of the idea that was back of them. That idea was merely this: Unfair competition is intolerable. But if the competition is fair, the scale which it is carried on is not only of no concern to the lawmakers, but the bigger the scale the more splendid the result—always provided that it is conducted with fairness and honor and openness. "Therefore on a temporary basis, properly made to define what was fair and what was unfair competition; to provide tribunals which would distinctly determine what was fair and what was unfair competition, and to supply the business community with a justice who would cry 'Stop!' but with men in such tribunals as the federal trade commission who would say 'Go on!' who could warn where things were going wrong and assist instead of check. "Some of these days, gentlemen, when the great tides of business are running free in this country, you will look back upon the last three years and say: That was when the channels

Dictum of Dr. Eliot of Harvard on President
Wilson

Calls to Mind Eminent Americans Who Felt
Otherwise

(Special to the Republican.)
NEW YORK, Oct. 5.—Commenting upon the recent open letter of the Charles W. Eliot on the presidential campaign, Mr. Everett P. Wheeler, the distinguished New York lawyer and publicist, says in a letter to the New York Tribune:

"President Eliot, in his letter on the presidential campaign, has stated one issue with great distinctness. He says America has now turned its back on the familiar policy of Rome and Great Britain of protecting citizens by force
of arms and has set up a quite different policy of her own."

"It is quite true that we have turned our back on the policy which was that of Rome and Great Britain and, I may add, of France. It has also been said that this country, Daniel Webster
said, when Secretary of State: 'Their duty to interfere becomes imperative
in cases affecting their own citizens.'"

"John Fiske put it more strongly
when he said: 'A government touches
the lowest point of ignominy when it confesses to an inability to protect the lives and property of its citizens.'"

"When our wandering citizens were captured and their property seized by the Barbary pirates, Thomas Jefferson
said in his annual message of 1801:
'To those who expect us to calculate whether a compliance with unjust
demands will cost less than a war,
we must leave as a question of calculation for them also whether to recede from unjust demands will not cost them less than a war.'"

"When our citizens were captured
and taken into Tripoli, Jefferson
supplied cash, ammunition and provisions
for an army furnished by Hamet of Tripoli, and compelled the Bey of Tripoli to make honorable terms with
our government. The Pope publicly declared that America had done more
for Christianity against the barbarians
than all the powers of Europe united."

"President Eliot's idea seems to be to adhere to the policy of splendid isolation that some Americans have advocated. For my part I prefer to say with Emerson, 'The world was

MILK FAMINE STILL THREATENS

Farmers and Distributors
Are Unable to Reach Agreement

NEW YORK, Oct. 5.—Efforts to reach a settlement of the deadlock between distributors and dairymen which threatens this city with a milk famine
failed late today when John J. Dillon,
state commissioner of food and markets,
who is accredited agent of the Dairymen's League, refused for his organization to accept the advance in price demanded by the farmers unless contracts were made on a six months basis.

The distributors, led by the Horden
Condensed Milk company, had agreed to pay the 45 cents a hundred pounds
increase in price upon which the league members insisted, but with the stipulation that it should be for the month of October only. The added condition was imposed that an impartial investigating commission, satisfactory
to both sides of the controversy,
should be appointed by Mayor Nichols.

A statement issued in behalf of the milk dealers said:
"This price is made simply to individual farmers. It is not made with any league or with Commissioner Dillon,
and our business arrangements with
the farmers will be as heretofore,
between the various companies and themselves."

"made for honest trade." It is by commerce
that civilization is to be extended.
I do not say commerce alone,
but all the benevolent and Christianizing
influences of education, physicians,
hospitals and education go hand in hand
with commerce, and the question for the American people to decide is whether this country is prepared to protect the rights of its citizens in foreign countries
or whether it will leave them to their fate."

"When our citizens were captured
and taken into Tripoli, Jefferson

for an army furnished by Hamet of Tripoli, and compelled the Bey of Tripoli to make honorable terms with
our government. The Pope publicly

Berlin Food Shortage.

LONDON, Oct. 5.—(10:42 a. m.)—
Great difficulty is being experienced in provisioning Berlin, according to the

attributed to lack of field laborers.
The decrease in the milk supply is the subject of anxious discussion by the

WILSON'S WEAKNESS IN EMERGENCIES ROOT'S THEME

Has Crippled Nation in Prospect of European Aggression

States' Rights Policy of Democratic Party
Blocks Progress

NEW YORK, Oct. 5.—Immolation of the foreign policies of the United States
and national defense agencies of the democratic administration and a plea for an awakening of "the spirit that bore up
our fathers in their poverty and struggles"
marked a political speech delivered here tonight at Carnegie Hall by John R. Root.

"We are told that Mr. Wilson has kept the country out of war, so has every president for a century," Root said.
"Never since Columbus sighted San Salvador
has there been a time when it has been so easy
for America to keep out of war by doing nothing by doing nothing."

"Our danger is later, when peace has been made and the attack comes from within and without. Then we will come the pressure of competition backed by force in these new continents where the wealth of the world is concentrating.
Then must be determined whether the Monroe Doctrine is to be surrendered as an idle boast."

"Peace is not maintained by the surrender of just rights, for the presumption
of impunity begets of weak submission
to aggression breeds still further aggression.
Peace is maintained by the assertion of just rights, dispassionately and uncompromisingly by knowledge of power
behind the assertion."

"The Wilson administration has failed
in three fields of major importance and
has shown itself irresolute and incompetent.
That is the judgment of the world.
These three are the murder of our citizens
in the Isthmus, the protection of military and naval forces for national defense and the ghastly failure of Mexico."

Root reviewed the Lusitania and other
submarine negotiations with Germany,
and added:
"A year and more later, upon the President's declaration that he would do nothing by doing nothing, if such things continue he would break off
diplomatic relations, Germany suspended
her practice of aggression. She may resume it tomorrow. Her statement upon discussing the resumption of it. She made no amount and she has made no
amount of promise for the future."

Of the Mexican situation, Mr. Root
said:
"Proclaiming impartiality and respect
for the rights of Mexico, President Wilson interfered in the civil controversy in Mexico and fine intervened by force of arms and destroyed one party and aided
the other party and overthrew Huerta
and set up Carranza and Villa in the control of government there. He has managed it with such skill that no man
in Mexico dares call him a traitor."
The question for the nation, he said,
now is, is the willing to have their
vital affairs during the next four years
conducted in the same way that the Mexican business has been conducted?"

The speaker then turned to the tariff,
saying:
"Our market has always been attractive to European producers. It will be for some time after the war. It is highly probable that even England will revert to a protective tariff so that our production will meet protective barriers
in all the foreign markets."

"We must protect ourselves or we shall become the dumping ground of the world and our workmen will beg in the streets."
If the country wants a tariff for revenue
only, they may put the making of it in the hands of the Democratic party.
But can any sane man imagine that the party making a protective tariff, in the place, they can't do it honestly.
They don't believe in it.

Protection by War.
"If there ever was a clumsy, ill-conceived,
mistake law, it is the Underwood tariff law. It had failed when it was in European countries that were not American production the most absolute protection. So long as the war lasts our producers have practically no competition,
for Europe does not make the goods
to sell here."

"When the war is over that condition
will cease and we shall see what happens to us if we don't provide a tariff
quite different from the Underwood tariff."
There is another grave matter which should influence the selection of a new government. That is the surrender of the President and Congress to the consent of the four railroad
brotherhoods for the increase of their wages by a law passed under threats.

"Universal opinion has been that such questions ought to be settled by arbitration.
Labor has been in favor of that. The most intelligent and logical minded citizens have been for that.
If railroad rates have been justified
by the Interstate Commerce Commission, upon enormous increases of pay to their employees the rates must be increased
and the whole public must pay more."

There is a broader question than the payment of higher railroad rates. There is the question of the competency of government and the spirit of a self-governing people. If the government of this democracy is to submit to compulsion
by an organized minority and the

The Stage and Screen

One looks for perfection of artistic detail in a Lasky screen production,
and there was considerable satisfaction
in seeing Lou Tellegen playing in
"A Victory of Conscience" this week.
The play is nothing remarkable, but the photography and the directing show the success that has come from high standards of motion picture work
without any spectacular clap-trap.

One was specially interested in noticing among the minor characters
on the screen James Young, long a member of the Vitaphone company, one of whose claims to fame is that he is, or was, the husband of Clara Kimball Young. They are now in fact separated, she to head her own company under the sponsorship of Selznick, and he to be a director for Lasky. Young, in fact directed the production of this picture. He is two years older than the man who two years ago, played such an admirable and human part in "The Broken Heart," but his capacity is seen in the arrangement
of this Lasky production.

It seems that the gallery must be satisfied in motion pictures just as on the stage. And the gallery demands distinctness. We have fights with Bertram and Helen, with Homer
Peters, and with all the lesser fry.
Even Lou Tellegen is called on to fight, and one of the weak things of this play is that he seemed to go about his fighting with physical as well as moral reluctance. He is a tall man, but he is not big in proportion, and he does not seem specially built for contest. His face is not handsome, Sarah Bernhardt and Geraldine Farrar
to the contrary notwithstanding, but it has a very French expressiveness
that is one of Tellegen's best assets
as an actor.

The best thing in "A Victory of Conscience" was, however, Cleo Ridgely. She has grown immensely
as an actress since we first began seeing her on the screen. She can now do what is permitted to but few actresses, emotional parts in youth.

The Ziegfeld "Follies" have gone on the road, taking with them little Ann Pennington and her even smaller Hula Hula costume. But thanks to the reproduction of the motion picture film,
nothing the diminutive Miss Pennington nor her abbreviated costume have completely departed from New York
nor any other part of the country.

"The Flame" has gotten down for a run as one of the biggest hits of the New York season, and Richard Walton Tully is turning his attention to other work. Within a fortnight he will start rehearsals of the play by John Hunter Booth in which Cleo Ridgely is to play. After a short run in the city and tour, this play, which is described as "a modern drama of English life," will open in New York
in December.

Leah Baird, long with Vitaphone,
is now to appear in Bluebird features.
people are to approve that by their votes,
other minorities will profit by the example.

States Rights Viewpoint.
"The weakness of the Democratic party is that it is national only in form
and profession."
"It has been the party of state rights
and jealous of the power of the national government. It denied the right of the nation to make internal improvements,
to establish a national bank to restrict slavery and to restrict the freedom of states, to issue greenbacks to maintain a protective tariff."

"When the Democratic Congress rejected Secretary Garrison's plan for a national citizen force to supplement the regular army and substituted the sundry inadequate provision for bringing in the National Guard of the states, it was because the party clung to the privilege of appointment of the officers of militia by governors of states. That would have been impossible if the Democratic party had been inspired by nationality and thought of the responsibility of the nation in arms."

"It was because the spirit of American nationality was not in the President or his secretary of state, and the Democratic Congress that the brave words of the message to Congress before the late war were sunk failed to life into the consciousness of the German government and prevent the outrage. That is the real reason why arrogant demands of the railroad brotherhoods upon the government of the United States were not recanted and repelled."

"With cheerful hope, I recognize as the true inheritor and interpreter of that ancient spirit which has made America
what she is, the strong, true and tried centennial when we are about to make the twentieth president of the United States—Charles Evans Hughes."

DOUGLAS, Ariz., Oct. 5.—The political situation in Cananea, Sonora, described as critical since General P.
Elías Calles, military commander of the Arizona forces in this state, and Adolfo de la Huerta, governor of Sonora,
refused to recognize and grant city
officials elected September 15, was said
by arrivals here today to be improved
as a result of stern measures adopted
by General Manuel Sotoval and 300
infantrymen sent by General Calles
from Guaymas.

The anti-Carranza and anti-American sentiment of a majority of the town's inhabitants is said by the arrivals to underlie the situation.
Marcelino Rios, an editor, for mayor,
and five councilmen said to have had
the backing of a party composed of Villa sympathizers and members of the legislative party, carried the election by a large majority. Part of the campaign propaganda of Rios' ticket alleged to have been that 25,000 as high took office all Americans in Cananea, and to have been arrested and held as hostages, in compel compliance with a demand for the withdrawal of General
J. J. Pershing's expeditionary forces from Chihuahua. When the expedition had been withdrawn, the Americans were to have been released, and expelled from the country.

General Calles refused to allow Rios
to take office, the arrivals say. General Sotoval and his force entered Can-anea unexpectedly and a number of men unaffiliated to Rios' ticket connected with the plot were arrested.
Six men are reported to have been taken, including the men backing Rios in his candidacy. The report that Rios was jailed and later executed, is denied semi-officially in Arizona today. A body of sympathizers estimated at from 25 to 125 accused of the plot, and were pursued by the troops.

ILLEGAL

If the opinion of Attorney General Webb of California, as to organizations of producers in California means anything, it seems to mean that the law is to be freely violated by anyone except the state, which is the maker of all law. Market Master Harris Weinstein has been active in forming marketing combinations among the growers of California. The California Raisin Company, which is now crowned with several years of success, has been admittedly taken as a model for his efforts. It would be very good policy for all the growers of California to pool their products just as raisins have been pooled, to steady the market. But the attorney general now warns Weinstein that a combination of any sort "to fix prices" is illegal. He adds in the same breath that the law cannot be enforced.

It would be immoral for a state of floor to break a law on the mere ground that it cannot be enforced, or to encourage the breaking of a law. But is it any more immoral than to have a law on the statute books that all immoral men are violating daily for immoral purposes, and that prevents moral men from pursuing perfectly legitimate purposes.

If the state law stands in the way of the efforts of the market master to promote growers' organizations, it is high time that the legislature amend the law to reflect the moral attitude of the people of California, which very certainly approves of growers' combinations.

POLICY

Probably there has been no example in a generation of a President so trimming his sails with reference to the coming of a new election, as in the case of Wilson. In fact, Mr. Wilson's course has been markedly "political" in substance and careful in form. He has protested that he would not make a "campaign," would not make any political tours because it did not comport with the dignity of his office, and has protested much that he would not let politics influence his political actions. Yet, in fact, his policies have in fact changed continually with reference to the coming election. He answered at preparedness until he found that the country demanded preparedness. He refused to protect the Mexican border until he found that the country demanded protection for the border against Mexican bandits. He told people not to get excited over the war in Europe, and only got excited himself when he found that his policy was very generally condemned.

One of the most common criticisms of President Wilson has been that his policies, right or wrong, have not been persisted in long enough to know whether they were right or wrong. It has been pointed out that he has "wobbled" on about every big issue that has been presented to him. Perhaps the explanation is that he has changed his reading of the popular mind, from time to time, and that the wobbling is due to his altered conception of what the people wanted.

If so, he has failed to understand the ultimate meaning of democracy. The people must be pleased, but the only way they can be pleased in the long run is to choose men who have determination of character and are willing to stand or fall by the result of their judgments. The people approve more of a man they turn down for persisting in a course than they do of a man who is too servile in trying to please them. Woodrow Wilson has utterly failed to be a "leader" of his fellow countrymen.

No better illustration could be given of the President's course in changing his policies with an eye on the general election, than the order issued yesterday at Washington regarding the civil service examination of office holders. Civil service is no new thing. It has been agitated for a generation in the United States. Progress in the merit system has been made under every President since Cleveland's first term. The present Democratic administration is the first for thirty years to create many new offices without entering them under classification for civil service examination. The National Civil Service Reform League, a non-partisan organization, which has been critical of Republican and Democratic administrations alike, very vigorously protested a year ago against the course of the Wilson heads of department at Washington, on the civil service, but without effect. But now that Charles E. Hughes has been pointing out the violations of the spirit of the civil service by Wilson appointees, in his campaign speeches, there is a change. Secretary Redfield yesterday transferred to the civil service list all the trade commissioners, commercial agents, experts and special agents employed by the department of commerce. This is a branch of the public service that has grown greatly since the trade changes caused by the Great War. The men appointed to these positions took the examinations according to law. But they were never protected from arbitrary removal, until the failure to do so had been made a campaign issue. Here is a specific example of the effect of campaign agitation of an abuse.

RETROGRESSION.

The action of the Emperor of Japan in defying the majority of the Japanese parliament and inviting Count Terauchi to form a new cabinet for the empire is one more instance of the attempted revival of monarchical power the world over. We have become so used to regarding kings and emperors as puppets, that it is with a shock of surprise we hear every so often of a monarch "asserting his rights." It should be remembered that the entire assumption of royal irresponsibility is but a theory that has grown up through the decay of royal initiative and the growth of parliamentary control, and that it is entirely in the power of most of the kings and emperors of the world to disregard the wishes of a majority of parliament. Ordinarily they would not dare to do so. It is only on occasion, where the whole nation is divided, and there is ground for supposing that a majority of the people do not sympathize with the majority in parliament, or that the logic of events is leading away from the wishes of parliament, that the monarch dares to follow his own inclinations in the choice of his ministers or in determining executive action. We have seen, within the last few years, the king of Sweden arbitrarily preventing the majority in the Swedish parliament from carrying out a socialistic program. We seen the king of Greece, influenced by his German court relations, defying the majority of the Greek parliament and the Greek people in his policy toward the Great War. And now we have the Mikado using his influence against Okuma, the most popular as well as the ablest statesman in Japan, and naming in his stead, the leader of the bureaucratic reactionaries.

What is virtually a coup d'etat at Tokyo is especially unfortunate for the world because it is both a success for the war party in Japan, and it is a victory for the Elder Statesmen, a group of men who have always been against progressive reform of the Japanese social and industrial as well as political system. They are the survival of the old landed nobility, who distrust the events of the last forty years in the Island Empire, and who believe that the interest of Japanese society would be best conserved by a revival of the oligarchical control of the shogunate.

It is perhaps strange to have this landed aristocracy now in favor of a militaristic career in Asia, and supporting an aggressive policy against the United States on the immigration question. There is an "once, however, that the Elder Statesmen believe that foreign settlement is their safeguard against the rising wave of radicalism in the islands. They fear that if the people of Japan do not have a chance to move over into Asia or into America, they will agitate against economic system and the large land owners. So an aggressive foreign policy goes hand in hand, in Japan, with a spirit of resistance to social and agrarian reform.

Count Okuma has been in many respects the Gladstone of Japan. Himself one of the Elder Statesmen, instead of growing more conservative as he has grown older, as do most men, he has advanced with the spirit of the times, and is today, even at four score years, one of the most progressive statesmen in the world. His hand has been a balance wheel against the jingoism of Japan. He has favored expansion, but not at the expense of crushing his people with unbearable taxes or military burdens. He has had the sympathy of the commercial and middle classes. But he retires from office only to see a revival of mediaevalism in Japanese politics.

THE KNOCKERS
I know he must be doing well,
I know he's getting on,
His work has now begun to tell
His struggle time has gone;
He now has passed the dreary days,
The lonesome ones and grim,
And now is treading better ways
For folks are knocking him.

His skill has caught the eye of men,
His worth is seen at last,
He's left the throng that knew him
When his sales were overcast.
He's never the laurel for his brow
By toll and pluck and vim,
And he is doing real work now,
For folks are knocking him.

The knocker is a curious cuss,
He never starts to whine
Or fling his envious shafts at us
Until our work is fine.
It's only men with skill to do
Real work he tries to knock.
And so, congratulations to
The man the knockers knock.

"I ask you to pay me this bill," said a tailor to a wealthy debtor.
"Do you owe anybody anything?" asked the wag.
"No, sir," replied the tailor.
"Then you can afford to wait." And off he walked.
A day or two afterward the tailor called again. Our wag was now at his wife's end, so, turning to his creditor he said:
"Are you in debt to anybody?"
"Yes, sir; I am sorry to say I am."
"Well, why don't you pay?"
"I haven't got the money," replied the tailor, with a woe-begone countenance.
"That's just my case, my dear sir. I am glad to perceive that you can appreciate my position. I always respect your judgment, sir. Give me your hand, sir." —Pittsburgh Chronicle-Telegraph.

UNIQUE GERMAN VILLAGE FOLLOWS ITS BUILDERS FROM NEWPORT NEWS TO PHILADELPHIA

The German crews of the interned cruisers Kronprinz Wilhelm and Prinz Eitel Friedrich transformed a dumping ground in the Norfolk navy yard into a sightly and thriving village, and when they were transferred with their vessels to the Philadelphia yard they took the village with them. Hundreds of pets, ranging in size from poliparrets to porkers, were acquired and treasured, and hundreds of dollars were earned by dexterous hands which fashioned ingenious articles of wood and tin to sell to sightseers. The sailors provided a commodious bathhouse for their own convenience, laid out a model village with flowered parks and made friends with their neighbors. This photograph shows two thoroughly American pets in the arms of two American girls.

Dobrudja, Battlefield of Fate

A Marsh, a Desert and a Cockpit of Fighting Nations Since the Roman Emperor Trajan

By Svetozar Todoroff
Author of "Russia's Struggle for an Outlet" and "The War of the Nations"
(Copyright, 1916, by The National Editorial Service, Inc.)

Such is the description and the history of the Rumanian province of Dobrudja, that triangle between the Danube and the Black Sea where the armies of seven nations are struggling for the mastery of the Balkans and of the "bridge" from Berlin to Bagdad.

Trajan's legionaries called it Scythia Minor when they marched over it to carry the fame and power of Rome across the Danube, to the vast plains of the greater Scythia. The peasants of Dobrudja still point out a scattered ruin, running along the railroad from Tchernavoda to Kustentje, and tell the traveler that it is the remnant of Trajan's wall, the barrier which the emperor built in the first half of the second century to guard his eastern realm from the incursions of the Scythians. Though archeologists throw doubt upon the authenticity of the ruin, the belief in its antiquity gives some idea of the depth to which the roots of Dobrudja extend in the soil of time.

The present name of the Dobrudja originated in one of those political earthquakes which have shaken the Balkan Peninsula and its peoples at all too frequent intervals since the beginning of history. It was in the fourteenth century, when the Romans were hardly more than a memory in the Balkans, that a Bulgarian prince, Dobritsch, established in that corner of the world a Bulgarian principality. The town of Dobritsch, which the Rumanians lost to the Bulgarians recently, is named for that prince. The word Dobrudja is a corruption of the same name.

Prince Dobritsch made Dobrudja a power in the eastern world for a brief period. He challenged the might of the Byzantine empire, took Varna, the adjacent port on the Black Sea, from the emperor and even ventured upon a path of maritime conquest by sending a fleet to the aid of his brother-in-law, who was contesting the throne of Trebizond, on the Black Sea.

Then came the Turks, and history ceased in Dobrudja as a clock ceases when it has run down.

The Dobrudja was next heard of in the last quarter of the nineteenth century. At that time Russia had vanquished Turkey with some help from Rumania to annex the Dobrudja, with its 7,500 square miles of territory and its 200,000 souls. In return, however, Russia herself annexed the Rumanian province of Bessarabia. The congress of Berlin sanctioned the transaction.

This was a poor exchange for the Rumanians from every point of view—and it had on incidental effect of bringing Rumania into chronic friction with the newly created Bulgaria, because the territory taken over by the government at Bucharest belonged to Bulgaria geographically, racially and strategically.

A marsh in the north, an arid desert in the middle, and mountainous in a good part of the region where it is neither desert nor marsh, the Dobrudja as defined at the congress of Berlin touched along its southern border a singularly fertile part of Bulgaria—the plains around Silistria, Turtukan, on the Danube, and the Dobritsch region. So, to compensate themselves for the loss of Bessarabia to their ally, Russia, the Rumanians watched their opportunity.

That opportunity came in 1913. Bulgaria, engaged with four nations on her southern, western and eastern fronts, was confronted with a demand from Bucharest for the cession of the rich strip of territory adjoining the Dobrudja. When Bulgaria refused to accede to this demand, Rumania marched in and occupied Silistria, Turtukan and all the territory which she coveted. The treaty of Bucharest, of which Russia was the sponsor, confirmed Rumania in her possession of nearly 3,000 square miles of the most productive territory of the Bulgarian kingdom.

But it is the unexpected that happens in the Balkans, far more frequently than that which is expected. Another chance has been wrought in the fast-moving panorama of Balkan events. Russia, since 1878 has been partly undone by marching battalions, and the fragments of the treaty of 1913 have been scattered to the winds by mailed hands.

All of the territory which Rumania took from Bulgaria in 1913 has been won back by Bulgaria, and in addition a good part of the Dobrudja as defined by the treaty of Berlin.

Will the latest verdict of history stand, or will it be reversed by the decree of future military events? The answer is being awaited with tragic interest by more than 300,000 human beings, to most of whom, as to all her Jews, Rumania has denied the basic rights of citizenship, including the ballot.

For, besides a Rumanian minority, the Dobrudja is inhabited by a majority of non-Rumanian races—Bulgarians, Greeks, Turks, Nogai Tartars, Circassians, Russians, Germans, Jews and Gypsies. These races are children of the soil or victims of history. Political rights are denied to most of them, and some of them, like the Jews, suffer under severe civil, commercial and other disabilities in addition. Whereas across the frontier, in Bulgaria, all races and religions enjoy equal rights at the polls and before the law.

Svetozar Todoroff is a well known historian of Balkan affairs. He has written many books, magazine articles and editorials on Bulgaria and the situation in the Near East which are considered among the most authoritative contemporary works on the subject. He keeps in touch constantly with European statesmen who are watching the Balkan situation. He is a regular contributor to the National Editorial Service.

HANDS A FRIGHT WITH PIMPLES

Itched Till Child Was Nearly Wild. Some Nights He Cried All Night. Now Entirely

HEALED BY CUTICURA SOAP AND OINTMENT

"My brother's hands started with pimples; some had water, and some seemed to have matter in them. His hands cracked and you could almost lay a slate pencil in the cracks. They itched so that he scratched till he was nearly wild, and they were a fright. We had him treated, but his hands were getting worse all the time, and some nights he cried all night.
"Then we got Cuticura Soap and Ointment, and it was not long before the itching stopped, and his hands began to heal. Now they are entirely healed and they have never bothered him since." (Signed) Mrs. W. G. Dow, Mandan, N. D., April 1, 1916.

RELIEF ASKED FROM IMPROPER DRAINAGE

First Street and Tulare Avenue Do Not Drain, to Grade Street

Complaining that storm waters were being backed up on the property of the Superior Market through the street improvements made by the city, a petition was filed yesterday asking the city trustees to remedy the conditions that now exist on Tulare avenue and First street.
The petition recited that grading the avenue has caused the storm waters to become impounded on private property near the street intersection. City Engineer Cronkite stated last night that backing up of water at First street and Tulare avenue was caused by the grade on First street being lower than that on Tulare avenue. The condition has existed two years, since the grade of Tulare avenue was raised.
The grading of First street between Tulare avenue and Illinois will establish a complete drainage. Bids have been called for on the work which will begin within two months.

GEO. P. BEVERIDGE DIES SUDDENLY AT SANITARIUM

Complete Nervous Breakdown Follows Threatened Apoplexy Attack

Manager of C. W. A. for 20 Years; Pioneer
in Industry

GEORGE P. BEVERIDGE.
Prominent Fresno wine man, who died
suddenly yesterday morning.

George P. Beveridge, a dominant figure in the wine industry of California, and one of the pioneer wine manufacturers of the state, died suddenly at the Sanitarium at 6:45 yesterday morning. Although he had been ill since last Tuesday, when he was threatened with a stroke of apoplexy, his condition was not considered as critical Wednesday. The following day he was in a complete physical and nervous breakdown.

Mrs. Beveridge and her son, George Beveridge, Jr., were at the bedside when death came. Beginning at 4:30 the patient suffered a sinking spell. An hour later Dr. T. M. Hayden was called in consultation with Dr. T. N. Sample and Dr. H. J. Graycroft. They were unable to revive his ebbing vitality, however, and he died shortly before 7 o'clock.

Tuesday afternoon he was stricken while in the Sequoia Club. Fearing an apoplexy stroke he was rushed to the Sanitarium by Dr. Graycroft. How the danger of the stroke was averted. The following day he had a slight hemorrhage, indicating a

Engineer Says He Was Senseless 100 Miles Before Wreck

Claiming that he was unconscious for about 100 miles, after having been struck on the head by a bundle of train orders, and that he did not know his train had been wrecked until he came to in a hospital, was the statement made in a deposition by Engineer W. H. Benicker before the inquiry board that met yesterday to investigate the wreck of a Southern Pacific freight train.

The wreck occurred at the San Heimo switch. The inquiry board found that the manifest freight train entered the switch yard at the rate of 25 miles an hour instead of at the rate of 8 miles an hour. The train piled up, one man was killed and several badly hurt. Benicker is in hospital in San Francisco.

The inquiry board found Engineer Benicker and Conductor J. Hanson responsible for the wreck.

general breakdown. The physician, however, believed that he would recover under proper care.

The health of Mr. Beveridge was greatly impaired a year ago when he was confined to a San Francisco hospital for six weeks with pneumonia. He never fully regained his strength from this, and worried a great deal about his health.

Born in Scotland, George P. Beveridge was born in Dunfermline, Scotland, at Crombie where the family estate was located. In 1887, after receiving his education, he came to America in 1885 and arriving here settled in Fresno. His brother James V. Beveridge had preceded him here seven years previously.

For several years he was employed at the Margherita vineyard, where he was manager of the vineyard and winery. Later he acquired the Paxton vineyard which was the family home until 1906 when they took up their residence at the Eggers vineyard.

For the past 20 years, Mr. Beveridge was the local manager of the California Wine Association, and in that capacity held one of the most important positions in the association.

He was a well known figure in the business life in Fresno, through his interests and by reason of his connection with the Wine Association. At one time he was a president of the Sequoia Club. He was also a member of the Fresno Lodge of Masons.

In 1888 Mr. Beveridge was married to Miss Margaret M. Cochran in this city. Miss Cochran was also a native of Scotland. Besides the widow, five children survive. They are Mrs. James D. Wilson, Mrs. Gerald P. Thomas, 254 San Pablo avenue, Constance and Ann Beveridge of this city, and George P. Beveridge, Jr., of San Francisco. James V. Beveridge, a brother, lives on Ventura avenue. William O. Young an uncle resides in San Francisco and an aunt Mrs. W. Mackenzie lives in Orosi.

The funeral services will be held from the St. James Pro-Cathedral church, Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock. Dean G. R. E. MacDonald officiating. The Fresno Lodge of Masons will conduct the services at the Fresno reformatory. Burial will be in the P. M. Miller, Dan Brown, Jr., M. P. Tarney, Frank Malcolm, William Rennie and William Robertson.

FINE STOCK PARADE IS FEATURE AT KINGS FAIR

Attendance Yesterday
Was Best Since Opening
Day; Award Stock Prizes

Better Babies Contest Is Popular; Banquet Is Tendered Breeders

HANFORD, Oct. 5.—Today was children's day at the county fair, hundreds of children taking advantage of the holiday that had been declared in the county schools to visit the fair. The weather was the best since the fair opened, and as a result the attendance increased materially. The children were admitted free of charge, nevertheless the gate receipts were the best since the opening day, the sunshine having brought visitors from far and near who had been afraid of the rain before.

Fine Stock Parade. The stock parade at noon was one of the features of the day, some three hundred head of stock taking part in it. The parade was the best that has ever taken place since the county fairs have been held here. Judging in the stock classes is still going on, the judges working from early morn until dark in order to get ahead with the work.

Most of the hog and horse classes have been judged. Mark Bassett, W. Bernstein and Fred Ross of this county, and H. L. March of Modesto are the principal winners in the Poland-China classes. In the class for G. I. C's, M. H. Lock of Los Angeles swept the boards. William Bernstein of Hanford was again a winner in the stallion classes, likewise C. S. Starr, W. D. Drennan of this county and the Tagus Ranch of Tulare; W. D. Treweek of this county and the Tagus Ranch were the most successful entrants in the Percheron classes. The Tagus Ranch also taking several prizes in the Belgian classes. Mark Bassett took most of the prizes in the draft horse classes, while John Burrell was an easy winner with jacks, Jennys and mules.

Baby Contest Attracts. The Better Babies competition continues to be one of the big drawing cards at the fair, babies being brought from far and near for the examination. Seventy-five babies have been examined so far.

Tomorrow the members of the California Swine Breeders' Association will visit the fair as the guests of the directors. They will be shown over the grounds in small groups with special guides, after which they will be taken to the grandstand on the race track to witness the racing.

Pork Demonstration. A public demonstration by the Kings County Poland-China Hog Breeders' Association will take place at noon, when two hogs will be slaughtered in order to demonstrate the difference between the grade and the purebred hog from the breeder's standpoint. A big crowd is expected to watch this demonstration.

Banquet Breeders

Two hundred swine breeders, members of the California Swine Breeders' Association, sat down to a banquet here tonight given in their honor by the Chamber of Commerce and the Merchants' Association. The swine breeders are gathering here for the semi-annual convention that begins tomorrow.

The feature of the banquet was roast pig, six (and) a half dressed up whole. William Bernstein, president of the Chamber of Commerce and vice-president of the association, presided. Speeches were made by Mark Bassett and Frank Newton, president and secretary of the Kings County Poland-China Association; Jules Hauser of the Hauser Packing Company, Los Angeles; J. L. Thacker, Riverside; W. E. Hogue of the Western Meat Company, and others.

The banquet was strictly informal, being called simply as a get-together affair.

Tomorrow morning the California Swine Breeders' Association will meet for the semi-annual convention. The meeting will take place at the Armory hall and is scheduled to begin at 9 o'clock. Several important papers will be read and for that reason the meeting will be thrown open to the public. Those who will read papers will be: Dr. J. C. Cady of the United States Department of Agriculture; W. E. Hogue, D. O. Lively and Jules Hauser. During the afternoon the Poland-China hog breeders will get together for the purpose of organizing a state Poland-China Hog Breeders' Association.

STATE WILL AID GOOD ROAD RALLY

Charles Stern, Cal. Highway Commissioner, to Attend Meet Here

Charles Stern of the state highway commission will attend the big good roads rally in the Municipal Auditorium, October 19, according to announcement of John A. Neu, president of the Fresno County Chamber of Commerce, at the meeting of that organization last night. Stern is making his promise to Neu said he also would try to induce others of the state highway commission to attend. Neu declared that Stern stands ready to give a week of his time to aiding the campaign for Fresno county's good roads bonds.

Invitations will be sent out within the next few days seeking the cooperation of all civic organizations in the county to aid the Fresno organizations in making the rally successful. Arrangements on behalf of the Fresno County Chamber of Commerce were placed in the hands of the following committee: Bart Harvey, George Boler and T. E. Collins.

Permission will be sought of the city trustees to use the new pipe organ for a recital; there will be speeches by out-of-town and local good roads exponents, and probably the evening will conclude with dancing. Other features will be arranged to make the occasion pleasant for the big throng that present indications point to.

The Chamber of Commerce endorsed the plan of the San Jose Fruit Festival Association to give publicity to the prize along lines first employed by Fresno in advertising its raisins. The other matter to come before the directors was the purchase of fire extinguishers, the better to protect the Chamber of Commerce building.

New members enrolled were J. A. Henderson, Arthur Hutchinson, Dr. H. M. Sarkisian, (from Fresno), Trilling Company, Bagley Brothers, W. H. Zobel, E. Moore, Juana D. Duly, C. C. Palumbo, E. C. Linthicum, Warner Cement Works.

MASONIC VISITORS SEE THIRD DEGREE

Two Hundred and Fifty Enjoy Banquet Following Ceremony Last Night

Over three hundred Masons, including many visitors from out-of-town lodges, as well as members of Fresno and Center of lodges of this city, were the guests of Los Palmas Lodge, No. 356, last night, when the third degree was exemplified by a selected group of non-office-holding members of the fraternity. The evening was a great success. The ritual of the third degree was carried out with noticeable fidelity to the traditions of the order, and George C. Thomas, who acted as master of the lodge, and the other officers of the evening, were highly felicitated on the perfection of their parts.

Following the ceremonies, a dinner was served on the dancing floor of the Masonic Temple, at which 250 were seated. There was a program of music by the Masonic orchestra, and Joseph P. Bernhard acted as toastmaster. J. C. Potto, for many years inspector of this Masonic district, complimented the work of the volunteer officers, and other speakers included J. G. Ferguson of Clovis and G. C. Thomas. Among the delegations of out-of-town Masons were many from Redley, Clovis, Sanger and Selma.

ED REDMOND COMPANY STAGING FINE PLAYS AT WHITE

The Ed. Redmond company, presented, and very cleverly too, what is credited as being the best work of George M. Cohan, in "Broadway Jones" at the White Theater last night to a crowded and delighted audience. The story of "Broadway Jones" is interesting.

Jackson Jones, nicknamed "Broadway" from early youth, because of his ambition to become a habitué of the "great street in the world," is the son of the man after whom Jonesville, a chewing gum factory in his native Connecticut, is named. The boy has inherited a large fortune five years prior to the opening of the play and has spent these years scattering it along the "wonderful street" and he has been so successful in separating himself from his coin that he finds himself broke.

In this dilemma he engages himself to a wealthy widow old enough to be his mother, but before the wedding is consummated the joyful news that a rich uncle has died and left him another fortune is received. The principal part of the new windfall is of the man after whom Jonesville, a chewing gum factory in his native village. The manufacturing plant has long been coveted by a rival concern, and knowing the young heir is a spendthrift, they immediately offer a large sum for its name and good will.

Young Jones is disposed to accept this as it will preclude the necessity of his unconventional marriage and allow him to pay his debts now becoming most pressing. A mutual friend advises him not to do this, at least not until he has investigated the value of the property. When "Broadway" goes to Jonesville to do this he meets a girl. She has been his late uncle's private secretary and confidential adviser. The girl tells "Broadway" a lot of things he did not learn on the "Great White Way," among other things that the rival concern wants to buy his factory in order to move it out to China, and when they do this 700 men and boys in his home town will be thrown out of work.

"Would you ruin the town your grandfather founded and which has been named after him?" the girl asks "Broadway." Her appeal is so earnest that the young heir decides to keep the factory and devote the balance of his life to a healthy business career.

This, in a nutshell, is the story of "Broadway Jones," which in the stage telling introduces many familiar types, both of New York and Jonesville, characters that are familiar for the everyday view one gets of them.

Jenks was jointly charged with his employer, Hickman's trial and acquittal took place several months ago.

It is understood that counsel for Jenks will plead insanity as a defense in behalf of his client. District Attorney McCormick and Assistant District Attorney Lawson will prosecute the case. They will be assisted by attorneys representing the insurance companies which issued policies to the Hickman concern.

"TWO GUN HART" IN NEW TWO GUN PART

Earl Cooper in Fresno Fair Races at Kinema

"Two-Gun" Hart in his latest and strangest Western part in "The Patriot" Kinema today

Could anything be stronger for "Two-Gun" Hart than to have to play the part of a U. S. A. fighting man, who through a series of circumstances loses confidence in Uncle Sam, turns renegade and plays the very devil with the country?

FLORENCE TURNER IN
FRESNO PHOTO

Florence Turner, Mutual Star Production.

A two-dollar top-price class and a powerful "pull" is the virtue of "A Welsh Singer," adapted from the widely read novel by Allen Kane.

Beautiful Hills of Wales for Background.

With romantic Wales, seething London and historical Rome furnishing the settings and the role of Mifflony, the little Welsh shepherdess, and adaptable to the talents of Florence Turner, "A Welsh Singer" will undoubtedly create even greater interest among the seekers of the best in screen productions than did "Far from the Madding Crowd" and "Footsteps," preceding plays in which she was starred.

"A Welsh Singer" will be at the Fresno Photo two days only—today and tomorrow. "Along the Shore of Massachusetts" is the subject of "See America First," the travel series, in which wonderful views of old historical points are shown as well as beautiful surf scenes.

Charlie Chaplin in "The Count" Coming Monday.

Charlie Chaplin has come back with his famous make-up—shoes, hat, cane and all—in "The Count," which starts Monday at the Fresno Photo. During the action of this hilarious comedy, Charlie introduces many new bits of business sure to provoke laughter in the most staid and dignified. It's a corker!

Two-Guns Aplenty After Long Abstinence.

While renegade Hart uses those two guns of his with a vim, that indicates the pleasure he has at getting back to them again, and it is a pleasure to us all to see his lever work in the tense, gripping scenes so characteristic of the great actor.

His regeneration takes place in this play in a peculiar way, without any woman entering into the equation. In fact, the heart interest is well worked up, but not once does a woman enter the picture.

All of the Triangle Kiddies have a splendid opportunity of showing their capabilities, and Hart plays to them in a way that wins every one's heart.

Our Own Earl Cooper in Fresno Races.

Ever to the fore, the Kinema presents today and tomorrow the moving pictures of the races of last Sunday, where our own Earl Cooper was such a prominent star. Scenes of every angle of the race are shown and extensive views of the grandstand, making the pictures of more than local interest, as they will be shown all over the whole country as a part of the International Weekly.

"Twilight Sleep"

Next Week.

At last, the long-awaited "Twilight Sleep" will be shown at the Kinema next week, but to women only. Three special performances will begin at 10 a. m. and run until after 1 p. m. and at which time not a single man will be allowed in the theater.

Starting at 2 p. m., the regular program will be resumed and run through until 11 p. m.

These pictures show birth under the influence of the well known "Twilight Sleep" method, as practiced in Germany and in some hospitals in America.

As the question is one of rising importance before the American women of today, the well known "Twilight Sleep" nurse, Mrs. M. Yeager, will lecture and discuss its many points of value as well as danger, at each performance.

ST. ANDREWS SOCIETY.

REPUBLICAN SCOREBOARD WILL SHOW EVERY PLAY OF BIG WORLD'S SERIES

That big platform now being erected on the corner of the Fresno Republican Building, Tulare and Van Ness, is for the Player Scoreboard on which the Fresno Republican will "play" every game of the big world's series. Fact is this scoreboard is the last thing in scoreboards. In realistic miniature every play as it happens in the big series will be shown on the board.

All you have to do to see the world's series just as good as if you were right there is to reach the Republican building in time to pick out a good spot. You can watch the great games without cost.

It is not like standing on tip toes to look at a bulletin board and straining your eyes to see what is doing.

The board is big enough and the figures and letters are plain enough to be seen from a distance of 300 feet. The board will be right on the corner of the balcony and can be easily seen from every angle.

Besides, it gives action. When the pitcher throws a ball or a strike the white pellet actually moves. When a hit is made the ball flashes across the diamond. The runner, starting for first base, is seen to move from base to base.

A special wire direct from the seat of war to the platform under the supervision of an expert operator will bring in every play. Then a corps of well trained baseball men will start the board and everything that happens in the game will be shown on the scoreboard and then magnified to the crowd.

Varly, the Fresno Republican scoreboard is the last thing in scoreboards.

Arrangements had been completed, and although the regular army and navy teams would be unable to compete this year, the matches promised highly satisfactory results. Forty-seven teams had entered the match today, representing the marine corps, National Guard organizations from a majority of the states and a large number of civilian rifle clubs.

RARE FISH BROUGHT to AMERICA on the DEUTSCHLAND

CLOSE scrutiny of the log of the Deutschland, the great German undersea liner that recently made the 4000-mile trip from Heligoland to Chesapeake Bay and brought a welcome cargo to America, joy to Germans and confusion to the allies, reveals that the Deisel engines had a responsibility beyond what is ordinarily known in the fact that the Plopy Puccia Guppy and the Danio Rerio were among the passengers. Sound important, do they not?

And they are important! These two families are quite famous in the tropics. The Guppy, as the first are familiarly called by their intimates, are natives of Africa, while the Danio family is best known through Brazil.

These hardy travelers were under the special charge of one of the officers of the Deutschland, who undertook to manure their trip from Hamburg to the United States. His task was no easy one: in fact, it was generally conceded by the men aboard the submersible that he was the most anxious man among this most-anxious crew. Of course, this is believable in that he was concerned not only with his own safety, but also with that of his guests. And he knew that at the other end of the trip there waited their future hosts, whose interest in the safe arrival of the Deutschland was no less than his.

Moreover, the Guppy and the Danio were difficult travelers. They are squeamish of their diet, and what the others of the great ship thrived upon would be totally inedible for them. They were fussy about their comfort, and the environment that satisfied the crew, or, at any rate, kept life in them, was totally fatal to these. And not to put too hard a turn upon it, they were veritable sponges for drinking. In a word, they drank like fish, exactly and literally.

For the Guppy are little fishes that measure just a scant inch and less. To be exact, the full growth of the male Guppy is a half inch, and occasionally the female of the species grows to an inch more than her shorter half. The home of the particular pair that chanced the submarine trip was in tropical Africa. They found few of their family in the United States on their arrival—a pair of 50 in New York and a scattered few in Brooklyn made up the total representation.

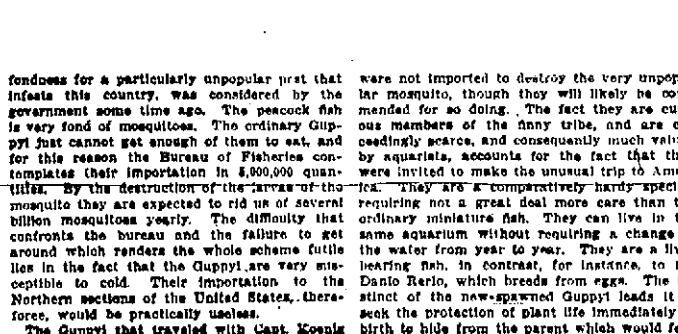

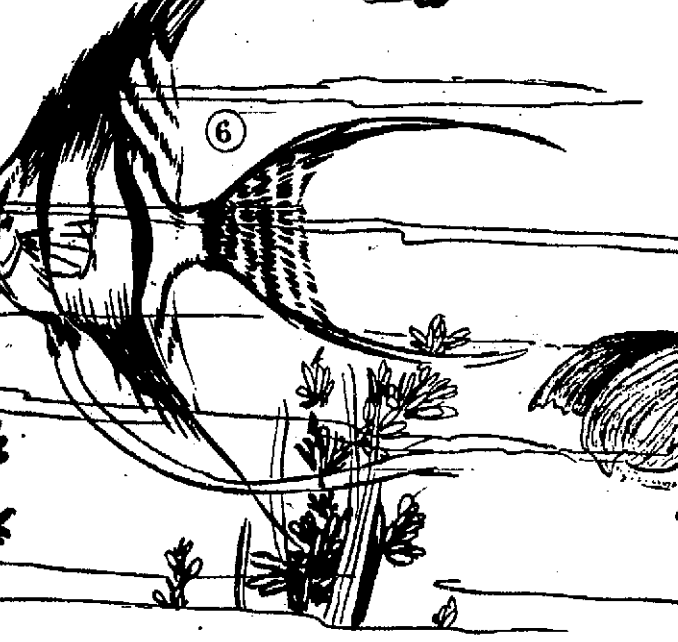

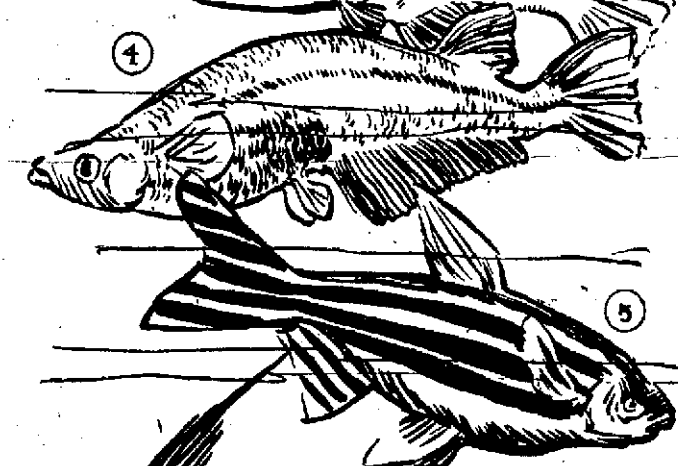

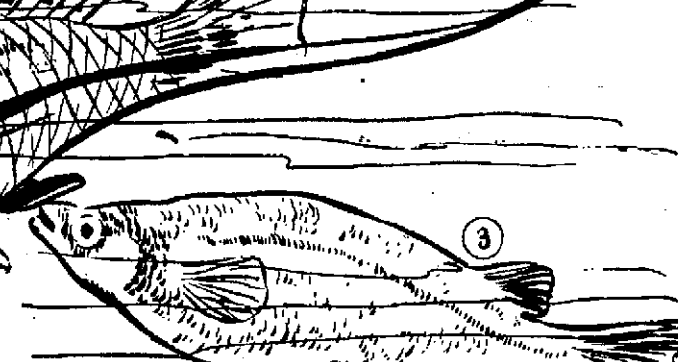

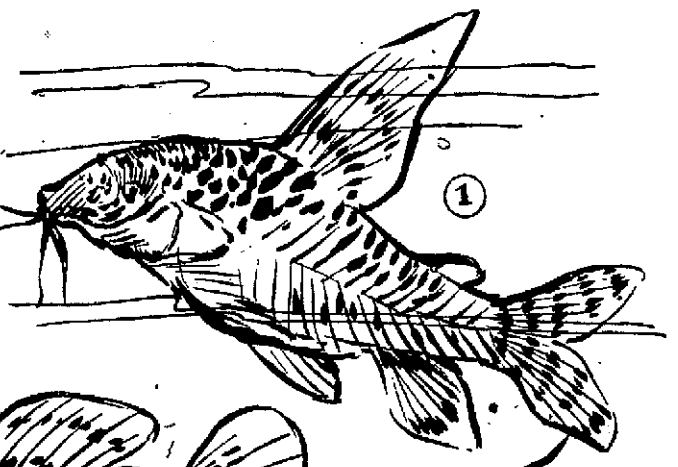

Some of the new arrivals were sent to St. Louis.

S. Chichester Lloyd, 4443 Morgan Ford road, said that one pair of each kind were gifts to him from the Deutschland's sailor. Since arriving, Lloyd said, about twenty little fishes have been born.

The popular name of the Guppy is the peacock fish. From their tropical environment one would expect that they had a little disposition to accent the colorful, but the Guppy really does out-peacock the peacock. In fact, while the peacock is a little bluish, to connect it with the Guppy is altogether unfair to the peacock. It isn't that the Guppy are to be compared to the peacock in the matter of gaudiness that they are so named. In this matter the peacock is comparatively a sober, drab sort of animal, but the scheme of arrangement is similar in that the Guppy are "eyed" as is the famous bird. The metallo "eyes" that cover the sides of the Guppy are a lustrous variety of all shades that colors can blend.

The importation of Guppy, because of its food does for a particularly unpopular pest that infests this country, was considered by the government some time ago. The peacock fish is very fond of mosquitoes. The ordinary Guppy just cannot get enough of them to eat, and for this reason the Bureau of Fisheries contemplates their importation in 4,000,000 quantities. By the destruction of the larvae of the mosquito they are expected to rid us of several billion mosquitoes yearly. The difficulty that confronts the bureau and the difficulty that lies in the fact that the Guppy are very susceptible to cold. Their importation to the Northern sections of the United States, therefore, would be practically useless.

The Guppy that traveled with Capt. Koenig

were not imported to destroy the very unpopular mosquito, though they will likely be commended for so doing. The fact they are curious members of the finny tribe, and are exceedingly scarce, and consequently much valued by aquarists, accounts for the fact that they were invited to make the unusual trip to America. They are a comparatively hardy species, requiring not a great deal more care than the ordinary miniature fish. They can live in the same aquarium without requiring a change of the water from year to year. They are a live-bearing fish. In contrast, for instance, to the Danio Rerio, which breeds from eggs. The instinct of the new-spawned Guppy leads it to seek the protection of plant life immediately at birth to hide from the parent which would feed upon its own young.

Emulating its namesake of the fowl order, the male peacock fish is the bearer of the family colors. The infinite challenges of the "eyes" would seem to be enough amply to color both male and female, but the latter must content itself with a dull olive, while the half-inch male is crowded with iridescent hues.

It is a strange thing that the Danio Rerio specimens that accompanied the Guppy on the Deutschland should have had to make such a trip to arrive at Baltimore. They are especially adventurous in that they traveled from South America to North America through the blockaded zone when they might have avoided the risk that such a dangerous voyage entailed. Their habitat in Brazil. They are also found in East India. Their unusual coloration and incessant activity make them favorites with the aquarists.

The ordinary size of the zebra fish is an inch for the male and a quarter more for the female. Its name is given to illustrate the zebra-like lines of color that run from mouth to tail along its sides. These are orange-yellow lines on an iridescent background of blue. Ever swimming, inches of fish should bring such amounts as $2000 seems almost unbelievable, but such is the current quotation of some of the rarer specimens from the aquarium. Not to any real intrinsic value, of course, are such prices due. They indicate, rather, the enthusiasm of aquarists for their hobby. Among these high-priced pets is the Oranda, a goldfish, a bewildered little animal that lives to the age of 300 years.

Not the least curious of the finny tribe, and a favorite among the few owners thereof, is the Medaka, a native of the province of Tsu, Japan. This little fellow is called the transparent fish, from the fact that its slight body, that stays under an inch and a half, is clearly penetrable by light.

Owners of gold fish, such as the 5 and 10 cent stores provide, may search to see if they, by any chance, have come upon the veil-tail, dragon-eyed goldfish. This is considered the most magnificent specimen of the fish culturist's art. The specimen is a hybrid. It combines in its exquisite body the most striking beauties of the Japanese, Chinese and American types. From the Japanese it takes the veil tail from the Chinese, the grotesque body and eye, and its color is that of the American type.

Aside from the beauty of its coloration, the rarity of the specimen makes it practically priceless. But one fish in 5,000,000 hatched is considered perfect.

A peculiar appendage to the body of one of the miniature fishes found in Mexico has gotten for its owner the name of Sabertail. Though a perfectly harmless little creature that never attains a greater length than 4 inches, and rarely that, the sword-like figure and the name it carries in him, utterly belie the disposition, for he has never been aggravated into using his weapon. A very beautiful little fellow he is. The upper part of the body is olive green, while the under parts are silver white.

The courtship diversion there is the battle of the fighting fishes. These lightweights are almost 2 inches in length, and when in a state of rage they seem sparks of flame darting at one another through the water. The victor of many battles is assured the favor of the king and a private aquarium at the palace.

A fish out of water has become the proverbial metaphor to describe an uncomfortable human. Yet there is a fish that lives quite comfortably for hours out of all touch of water. The labyrinth fish, a native of the tropics, is so equipped with a lung-like reservoir that it avoids an uncomfortable drying up of the pools it usually dwells in, by literally traveling overland.

MY QUEST

I sought for Love o'er the ocean wide,
In a distant place beyond the sea,
For His smile with a passionate voice I cried,
But only the waves moaned back to me.

I sought for Love on the mountain high,
Where the clouds blew white on the
misty air;
Brave and sweet and long was my cry,
But echo returned my unanswered prayer.

I sought for Love on the desert drear,
With yearning lips and heart aflame,
Calling "Come to me, my sweet, my dear,"
But alas! and alas! Love never came.

I went back weary and worn and spent,
With broken spirit and wounded pride;
Then my soul was filled with glad content,
For Love waited there at my own fireside.

place where it can again enjoy its natural element. The name of this fish indicates a mask-like pouch at the gills, wherein it holds air that enables it to stay alive for hours at a time out of water.

The Japanese and the Chinese, which preceded by centuries the entry of other nations into fish culture, are still leaders in the breeding and study of these miniature pets.

In the United States, due to the National Aquarium Society of America and other amateur bodies, a widespread interest in aquaria is growing. In many cities there are instituting municipal and private aquariums which will arouse the interest of the public and unquestionably make for an advancement of fish culture.

New Light Minus the Heat Is Discovered

THE discovery of a new light, or, rather, a new method of treating light rays, as it is to remove from among them the rays responsible for heat, has been announced to the French Academy of Science by Prof. Branly, speaking for the French engineer Dussaud, say cables from Paris.

It has been the ambition of scientists to produce a light perfectly "cold"—that is, free from heat rays. In the production of light by ordinary methods much heat is generated at the same time, and the burning of a light source to heat the surrounding atmosphere. The electric lamp is the nearest approach to a cold light ever known before; most every person knows how much heat emanates from one of the ordinary electric bulbs.

Because of the heat, it has been necessary in the projection of motion pictures to have fireproof films, or else to be exceedingly cautious, keeping the film rolling continually through the light chamber of the projector. With the new light, it is claimed, this precaution will be unnecessary and the danger of film explosions will be entirely eliminated.

It is also claimed that the new light is much more intense and brilliant than any heretofore known, and that with its use it is possible to project on a screen ordinary post cards and newspaper photographs. It is also claimed that the projection is so strong that the scene will show up on the screen very plainly even in a room brilliantly lighted with electric bulbs. Motion played about, rested in the shade, read a book and was altogether unhappy, but she was a stubborn little girl, sometimes, and so did not confess to mother that she was sorry.

$900 Paid for One Penny

NINE hundred dollars for one penny was the price recently paid for a copper coin of an issue, only two of which are known to be in existence.

The coin is one minted by the State of New Jersey in 1786, when each commonwealth coined its own money. It had the same value as the cent of today. It was part of the collection recently put on the market by Howard F. Lewis, an executor of his father's estate. It was bought by Hilyard Ryder of Elmira, N. Y., who paid $900 for this coin, which cost Senator Lewis $50 ten years ago.

BANK OF ITALY NEGOTIATING FOR FRESNO NATIONAL

Radin & Kamp Negotiating for Tulare and
J Property

GIANNINNI HERE

President of S. F. Bank in Conference With
Dan Brown

Negotiations are under way for the sale of the Fresno National Bank to the Bank of Italy and it was reported yesterday that the deal would probably be consummated within the next few days.

At the same time, negotiations are under way for the purchase of the Fresno National Bank Building at the corner of Tulare and J streets, by Radin & Kamp, according to information given out yesterday.

If the Bank of Italy takes over the Fresno National Bank, it is reported that the new institution will erect its own building on the southwest corner of J and Fresno streets. This property is now owned by A. Mattel and is occupied by a two-story building. It has been freshly repaired in local business circles that this property is being held for the Bank of Italy.

It was admitted yesterday by officials of the Fresno National Bank
that the deal with the Bank of Italy
was under way and it was also admitted that there is a deal on with Radin & Kamp.

A. P. Gianninni, of San Francisco, president of the Bank of Italy, was in Fresno yesterday, had luncheon with Dan Brown, Jr., president of the Fresno National Bank, at the Sequoia
Club and was in conference with him
the greater part of the day. He could not be located last night.

Negotiations have proceeded to the point where papers have been drawn up, it is stated, and announcement
of the completion of the deal is expected at any time.

The acquisition of the Fresno National Bank will give the Bank of Italy
three branch banks in the San Joaquin Valley. It purchased control of two banks, a commercial and a savings bank, in Merced, and combined
them several months ago, and more recently purchased control of the Fresno Bank of Porterville.

Radin & Kamp own a frontage of 100 feet on Tulare street, adjoining the Fresno National Bank. If they acquire the bank property it is regarded as very probable that they will rebuild it and make it a part of their main store building, giving them a location on the corner of Tulare and J streets.

BANK CLEARINGS STILL INCREASING

Both City and State
Shown to Be Enjoying
Era of Prosperity

Fresno bank clearings continued
soaring during the past week, according to figures yesterday by the First National Bank. The total business done during the week just passed is placed at $1,500,742.01 as against $1,364,944.33 for the preceding week.
Last year's clearing for the first week
in October were only $1,322,341.74.

Throughout the state this era of prosperity is read in the bank reports.
Figures announced yesterday by the California Development Board show
that in an even dozen important banking points within the state the clearings for the month of September
greatly exceed the clearing of September, 1915. The report follows:
